Dr. Roger V. Moseley who had spoken at our WCCP meeting on Monday September 17, 1980, has now moved into Windrows. So, Doris Ju our historian contacted him, and he wrote back:

Dear Doris, thanks for sending that reminder of days gone by... over forty years ago! As to what I've been doing since then... a few years after that I went on an expedition to Tibet in an attempt to climb Changtse, the North peak of Mt Everest. We were not successful but had an amazing experience.

After I retired about 20 years ago, my wife and I spent a few months working for the Himalaya Rescue Association in a tiny mountain village in Nepal. That was a splendid and fascinating cultural and medical challenge. My last real adventure was a more modest hike with twenty one family members, including grandchildren, in the Kenai Peninsula in Alaska.

My wife died eight years ago, and I subsequently moved to Windrows. I'm enjoying life here, but my activities are limited to an occasional venture down to the canal towpath to look for birds and flowers!

I should have added that during my retirement, I wrote a book entitled "Morality: A Natural History" which is about how humans developed ideas about moral behavior ...a pretty important topic always, but especially today!

As for the Boudinotes, a female acapella group who presented a special holiday program to the WCCP on December 1, 1980, internet searches yielded a couple more performance events. The group existed 1975-1987. Does anyone recognize anyone in this clipping from the Packet? They all looked so beautiful; they must have sounded beautiful as well.
